Monterrey, Nuevo León, November 25, 2026 – Copa Airlines celebrates 15 years of continuous operations between Panama and Monterrey, strengthening the Mexican city's connectivity with Central America, South America and the Caribbean through its Hub of the Americas in Panama. Since the route was launched on December 7, 2011, it has provided passengers traveling from Monterrey with convenient connections to destinations throughout the region, without the need to transit through other countries.

"The launch of this route marked an important milestone in our commitment to expanding connectivity. From Monterrey, our passengers have more options to reach their destinations efficiently and on time. Today, passengers traveling with Copa Airlines from Monterrey can connect through Panama to our extensive network of more than 65 destinations in 32 countries across the continent, creating more opportunities for business and leisure travel, as well as for visiting family and friends," said Mauro Arredondo, General Manager of Copa Airlines in Mexico.

"When the route between Panama and Monterrey was launched, flights operated four times a week. Currently, passengers have access to up to eight weekly flights, with same-day connections to destinations across the Caribbean, including the Dominican Republic, Barbados, the Bahamas and Jamaica, among others, as well as South American countries such as Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Brazil, Argentina, Venezuela and Chile," the executive added.

Over the past 15 years, Monterrey International Airport, operated by OMA, has strengthened its position as a key logistics and connectivity hub in northern Mexico. Ongoing investments in the expansion and modernization of its facilities have played an important role in supporting the growth of Copa Airlines' operations in the region.

"International connectivity is a key driver of regional competitiveness. At OMA, we are proud to celebrate 15 years of Copa Airlines' operations at Monterrey International Airport, during which the airline has transported more than half a million passengers between Monterrey, Panama and other destinations across Latin America. With the support of VINCI Airports, we will continue investing in the expansion and modernization of Monterrey International Airport to support Copa Airlines' continued growth in the region," said Ricardo Dueñas, CEO of OMA.

OMA and Copa Airlines celebrate 15 years of partnership, connecting destinations and contributing to the region's sustainable development.
