

Mazatlán International Airport Announces New Mazatlán–Guadalajara Route Operated by Volaris

- The route will begin operations on March 29, 2026.
- It will offer three weekly frequencies: Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday.

Mazatlán, Sinaloa, December 1, 2025 – Mazatlán International Airport announced the launch of the new Mazatlán–Guadalajara route, operated by Volaris, which will begin operations on March 29, 2026.

The airline will offer three weekly frequencies — Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday, expanding air connectivity between both destinations and strengthening travel options for passengers in the region.

Mazatlán is one of the most important tourist destinations on Mexico's Pacific coast, while Guadalajara continues to consolidate its position as a key economic and cultural hub in western Mexico.

This new route will enhance the flow of tourism and business travel between two key cities in the region, driving economic development and strengthening the connectivity of Mazatlán International Airport.

Tickets for the new Mazatlán–Guadalajara route are now available at www.volaris.com and through the airline's mobile app.
